Notes & Details

This Regency mobile aluminum lug rack with blue meat lug / tote provides everything you need to transport large quantities of meat, produce, or other raw ingredients from your storage area to your prep area! Designed to hold 1 lug, the rack will fit a variety of businesses' needs, whether that be food items or a lug of dirty flatware or glasses. This rack is made of 16 gauge 1" x 1" aluminum tubing with 14 gauge angle slides welded to the frame to enhance its overall durability. It features 1 shelf and has 5" heavy-duty polyurethane swivel casters. A braking mechanism comes on two of the casters to prevent unwanted movement during loading and unloading of the lug.

To ensure that your raw meat or other foodservice products are properly organized and stored, this kit includes a 25" x 15" x 8" blue meat lug / tote box. Featuring a dependable high density polyethylene construction, this item is designed for everyday use in high-volume environments. It also boasts a reinforced rim for additional strength, which guards against chips or cracks. This item can even be integrated into a color-coded system, where different color boxes are designated for use with specific cuts of meat or other foodservice products. This ensures superior organization while reducing the risk of cross-contamination. This box's blue color is commonly used for seafood to help your chefs comply with the USDA's Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point (HACCP) program. Plus, the container can cross stack or nest together with similar-sized tote boxes to help save valuable storage space.

Designed to expand the functionality of your food storage operation, the lug is perfect for refrigerating whole meats in your busy deli shop or grocery store. It's also great for storing processed beef, pork, or chicken in your large industrial freezer. This item even works well for holding dry ingredients or for transporting dinnerware and serving utensils around your next catered event. Additionally, its smooth interior surface and wide corner radius enable fast, easy cleanup!
