Taylor Adams Named FE&S Dealer Sales Representative of the Month

Taylor Adams, Vice President of Project Development at 11400 LLC, was named Foodservice Equipment & Supplies magazine Dealer Sales Representative of the Month in March 2025.

The recognition also positioned Adams in contention for the Dealer Sales Representative of the Year Award against the other 11 DSR of the Month recipients at the FE&S Dealer of the Year & All-Industry Awards Gala, held on Saturday, May 16, 2026, at the Four Seasons in Chicago.

The DSR of the Month designation and DSR of the Year nomination reflect Adams' commitment to excellence, consistent high performance, and a demonstrated ability to deliver meaningful customer service and sales results.

Since beginning his career in drafting more than 20 years ago, Adams has built a remarkable record of success with the company and now oversees 11400's project development. He has demonstrated exceptional leadership across a diverse range of foodservice operations, specializing in the procurement and installation of large-scale commercial kitchen solutions for K-12 public schools, correctional facilities, universities, and military institutions. He credits his achievements to hands-on learning and a proactive approach to expanding his skills and knowledge.

Adams embraces integrity and problem-solving. Combined with humility and a strong work ethic, these qualities have propelled him to success as one of the industry's most accomplished dealer sales representatives.

11400 President Jim Stephens emphasized Adams' standout contributions, noting, "Taylor is known for his commitment to the project and getting it right the first
